

Your business is your major asset and it is understandable that you want to know its value. We help businesses in many cases including business formation and valuation, new business ventures, gift and estate valuation, mergers, estate planning, divorce, shareholder disputes, buy/sell agreements, economic damages, and shareholder dispute resolution.

When valuing your business, you have to apply standard valuation methods. However, every buyer's circumstances and considerations are different, so for the same business, two buyers may propose two different offers. Value is calculated. Price is negotiated.

Flexible solutions for your business needs

Grossman St. Amour CPAs professionals are highly credible and certified to perform accurate and effective business valuations. Our professionals have served as arbitrators and court-appointed experts on valuation matters.

We are often retained by opposing parties with different valuations of a business interest, and have been appointed by the courts to mediate widely disparate appraisals as well as offer expert testimony.

Because of our firm's extensive experience in a diverse group of specialty areas, we are able to render formation and valuation services for a variety of purposes.

We work with:

- Commercial
- Contractors
- Marital
- Physicians & Medical Practices
- Professional Services
- Retail
